John,

I've now finished all the wizard help screens. All the help files and VB source is checked in. I've started a new SourceSafe section that will hold wizard files. In one of the help files I've said that the wizards are available on the web at www.expertune.com/wizards. Also I've asked people to email us their wizard files. What email address should we use?

Now on to something else - at last! ←
